Cremation has been an acceptable practice for over 40 years. Fellow Christians have a variety of reasons why they will choose to be cremated from expense to the practicality of friends and family traveling to bid their final farewell.

Each life deserves a respectful interment, our staff provide the highest level of service. Services will be scheduled on the half hour for Saturday urnments. After committal prayers have concluded the cremated remains will be placed in their final resting place. Family and friends may continue to reminisce and console each other. Your punctuality will ensure that the next family we are serving will receive the same level of service that you received.

Our cemeteries are sacred places for the living to memorialize their loved ones, with a variety of burial choices including granite, bronze or personalized glass front niches and beautiful cremation burial sites.

For those choosing cremation, the Catholic funeral tradition affords sacred and beautiful rituals that bring comfort to loved ones. There are two options when choosing to have a church service that are beautiful expressions of faith and reverence. The vigil, Mass, cremation and committal is one option. The other is cremation, memorial and then committal.
FAQs

Can I have a Mass if I am cremated?

Yes. The church still prefers the body be present at the funeral mass and have the body cremated afterwards. If the cremation has already taken place it is still possible to celebrate a Funeral Liturgy with the cremains present.

Can my cremated remains be scattered?

No. The body should always remain intact. Which also means the cremated remains should not be split for family members or jewelry.

Can my cremains be left at home?

No. Cremated remains should be given a proper burial.

What is considered a proper burial for cremated remains?

Proper burial is in a grave, mausoleum or columbarium niche on consecrated grounds. The preferred place would be in a Catholic Cemetery.
